

I would like to issue my support to all satellite radio to be able to provide whatever content they wish. If the Lawmakers and FCC side with the National Association of Broadcasters then that would go against the work that has been done to create competition among telecommunications companies. There will always be competition among companies and being XM is a pay service there should be NO oversight from the government. If the FM broadcasters want to win back listeners then maybe the tables should be turned on them requiring the over the air broadcasters to provide a better service. I suggest with elections coming lawmakers consider the ramifications of making drastic measures that affect millions of potential voters.
